SPRING ENROLLMENT - 1955

The State University of New York Newsletter has recently published a table showing the full-time and part-time enrollments in the 27 colleges and institutes of the University for the spring term.

The all-University total is 21,774 full-time students and 4649 part-time students. At this time last year, there were 20,025 full-time students enrolled. The College of Forestry totals show that there are 618 full-time students on our campus and 13 part-time students. Last year the full-time enrollment for the spring term was 579.

DESIGN AWARDS

At the 24th annual seminar on North Arrow Design (in the terms of the layman, the Mollet Club Banquet), held at Martin's last Saturday, the award for the outstanding senior design competition problem solution was awarded to two men. This was due to the similarity in excellence of the two designs. The winners were John Bright and George Householder. The problem consisted of the design of a living area for a moderate size home ficticiously located on Cazenovia Lake. The competitors were the seniors in the landscape curriculum.
